The Gallery Window

A special series profiling
New England Rare Coin Galleries' numismatic experts.

Donald W. Dee

When numismatist Donald W. Dee reflects on his past experiences at New England, the event that stands out clearly in his mind is the the day he attended his first coin show. "I remember seeing Jim Halperin sitting at a table and dealers were literally lined up to have him evaluate their coins. He commanded such respect from his peers, talking to the dealers while reviewing boxes and boxes of coins. Yet, in a matter of seconds, he could pick out exactly what he wanted. It's that kind of professional expertise that I strive for in my job."

Donald joined New England three years ago and has since used his numismatic expertise in several areas of the company, including the inventory control department and the retail store. As a member of the Wholesale Department, under the direction of Tim LaPointe, Director of Wholesale Operations, Don plunged into the heart of the numismatic market, attending dozens of shows and auctions. "I met some of the most prominent experts in the field and I created a valuable network of information sources that contribute to my present work. During this period, I assisted with the acquisition of hundreds of coins, which kept me in touch with the market. I soon realized that dealer-to-dealer activity was a solid forecaster of numismatic trends."

Presently a member of New England's numismatic staff, Donald sees his blend of retail and wholesale training as an important approach to numismatics. "I've been involved in several facets of the business, rather than concentrating in one area. This broad outlook helps me glean valuable marketing information for my clients." A graduate of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst and a resident of Tewksbury, Massachusetts, he still prides himself on keying in on buys that provide high returns for collector/investors. Currently, for example, he advises his clients to buy Silver Dollars and U.S. Type coins in MS-63 condition. "The difference in price between MS-63 and MS-65 coins far exceeds the difference in quality, making many of these MS-63 coins solid growth areas."

Market Report

by Tim LaPointe

At the shows

Price levels at many of the coin shows during January were often lower than anticipated, reflecting the readjustment period currently being experienced in the numismatic market. Several coin series are showing slight price reductions, while prices in other areas are climbing at a pace much slower than six or seven months ago. High-quality Choice material (MS-65 or better) is difficult to find, which is causing dealers and collector/investors to be extremely selective about the material they buy. But strictly graded coins in Gem Uncirculated condition are still commanding high premium prices.

January was highlighted by the Florida United Numismatists (F.U.N.) Show, held in Orlando, Florida, the Long Beach Coin and Stamp Show, held in Long Beach California, and the Mid-Year ANA Convention held in Hawaii. Popular items at all the shows included Proof Type coins, BU Type coins and Commemorative Half Dollars, though rarer issues in MS-65 are virtually unavailable in this series.

Gold

Gold bullion dropped more than $100 since our last report, at one point going as low as $480 and finally settling around $500. Consequently, bullion coins (such as Maple Leafs and Kruggerands) experienced parallel decreases in value. U.S. Common-date Uncirculated coinage, particularly St. Gaudens Double Eagles and Liberty Quarter Eagles, have been unaffected by the bullion downswing.

Lowered bullion prices have also increased dealer activity for Extremely Fine and About Uncirculated Type coins, particularly $5 and $10 Indian Heads. Other items moving in the market are $2.50, $5 and $10 pieces from the late 1700's and early 1800's.

Silver

Silver bullion settled at $13.00, a $3 drop from last month. This price fluctuation is indirectly affecting some numismatic silver coinage. Many issues have experienced slight price reductions, such as BU Silver Dollar Rolls and Late-Date Commemorative Half Dollars. Dealers are now willing to pay high premiums for Gem and Proof Type coins. Also, Late-Date Roosevelt Dimes, Washington Quarters and Franklin Half Dollars have largely been unaffected by the bullion price drop. Common-Date Barber Quarters are also strengthening their stand in the market.

New England numismatists recently purchased several Walking Liberty Half Dollars in MS-64 condition. Because this series is difficult to find in MS-65 condition, New England bought the coins before the price gap closes up between the MS-65 and MS-64 grades. Similarly, because Peace Dollars in MS-65 condition are virtually unavailable on the market, New England also purchased a number of these coins in MS-63 condition.

Currency

The currency market still shows tacit resistance against notes valued at $2,000 and higher. The strongest demand still lies in Fractional and Small Size Currency and AU Large Size Notes. Uncut currency sheets are still actively being sought after. Recently, an Uncut Sheet of $1 North African notes traded hands in the high four-figure range. Small Size Emergency Issue Notes are also showing significant gains.

World Coins

Frenetic buying and unusually strong bidding activity highlighted the first major world coin auction of 1981, held last month in Basel, Switzerland. Competition was fierce for the 1800 lots offered at the auction. Proof issues from several different countries were snapped up at prices three to five times higher than previous estimates. Gold and silver coinage from Germany and gold coins from Japan traded hands at prices 30-40% more than anticipated. Proof gold coins from Spain were also popular items.

Overall, the world coin market is still in a tremendous growth period. Initial U.S. interest in foreign coinage has been closely followed by interest from dealers and collector/investors in other countries. Thus, prices are being pushed up by the competitive pressure from abroad.

Coins & Sense

by Martin Paul
New England Numismatist

Planning your rare coin purchases carefully can make a difference. This is the first of a series of articles by New England Rare Coin Galleries' Numismatist Martin Paul.

When buying rare coins today there is a simple but very important question that every collector/investor should ask himself: Am I buying to make a profit within a matter of months, or am I buying for the long-term? Purchases should be made with your own answer to this question in mind. If, for example, you seek short-term profits, you might want to buy coin types whose price increases have lagged behind other types. For example, in the recent surge of circulated early type material, Heraldic Bust Dollars have lagged considerably behind other issues. In other words, circulated Heraldic Bust Dollars are currently inexpensive relative to other early circulated type issues. Since the market has not yet adjusted to this discrepancy, it would be wise to buy Heraldic Bust Dollars now and plan to sell them once the current imbalance in early circulated type adjusts.

If you chose, however, to buy for the long-term, you might do well to purchase average and/or choice type coins (i.e. those grading MS-60 to MS-63 and Proof-60 to Proof-63). Why? After the boom of late 1979 and early 1980 the market became virtually glutted with these coins — and with supplies this high, '60-'63 coins can be bought relatively cheap. However, it might take several years before the market "heats up" again enough to make a substantial profit on these purchases. But in a few years, as more and more of today's higher-grade coins are removed from the market and put into collections or financial portfolios, the demand for '60's-'63's will increase. What was once a glut will become a shortage. The simple laws of supply and demand tell us that the only way to alleviate the pressure of demand on a short supply is by substantial price increases.

Of course, in both of these scenarios, timing — knowing what to buy and sell when — is all important. That is why it is essential today to seek information from a professional numismatist. Because they spend most of their working hours monitoring the market, they know its ups and downs and can advise you on when to buy and when to sell. Remember, too, that the coin market is complex and trends will vary. With the help of a professional, you can best take advantage of the market's strengths and weaknesses by opting to sell certain coins when they have peaked and use the proceeds to buy other coins that you and your numismatist feel have greater potential for growth.

F.U.N. Show: An Insider's View

by Russell P. Vaughn

Director of Numismatic Research

(Russell Vaughn, Director of Numismatic Research for New England Rare Coin Galleries, was one of several New England numismatists who attended the Florida United Numismatists (F.U.N.) Show. Here are some of Russell's observations on this annual event.)

Since it had been several months since I attended a major coin show, and because I had never visited the "Magic Kingdom" of Disney World, it was with a great deal of enthusiasm that I left New England's sub-sub-freezing temperatures to attend the 26th Anniversary Convention of the Florida United Numismatists (F.U.N. Show) in sunny Orlando. We arrived at the convention site early Monday afternoon, two days before the official opening. Because the F.U.N. Show is held near Disney World, this convention has become one of the most popular annual events on the numismatic calendar. Traditionally, many of the several hundred dealers in attendance are accompanied by their families.

The F.U.N. Show also serves as a barometer for the strength of the rare coin market for the upcoming year. Since the 1980 F.U.N. Show was such a tremendous success, dealers were naturally optimistic that business would be equally as good. While it is difficult to predict what lies ahead for the numismatic market in the 1980's, the increased interest of the financial community is clearly contributing to the demand for rare coins.

On Tuesday, I helped set up the bourse area, handle last-minute exhibit details and prepare for the official convention opening, scheduled for the next day. Dealer-to-dealer transactions during the bourse set-up were less frenzied than usual. In fact, many dealers did not set up their tables until Wednesday morning. There were also few good buys offered during this time. We were pleased, however, to acquire a small group of Choice Early $10 Gold Pieces (1799-1804) from one of our New England colleagues. We also heard rumors that a number of 1794 Half Dollars had surfaced and would be available later in the week. The group of more than 50 pieces was reported to have changed hands in the low six-figure price range.) This kind of transaction makes rare coin conventions a challenge from a numismatic viewpoint.

A number of dealers from around the world attended the F.U.N. Show, indicating that interest in foreign coins is at an all-time high in this country. But there was a visible lack of choice foreign coinage available at the show, compared to the offerings at conventions held as recently as a few months ago. Overall, world coin price levels are beginning to rise, particularly in the coinage of Great Britain and Germany. At the second session of our New England Rare Coin Auctions sale on Thursday evening, a set of five pattern coins from Germany (Bavaria) sold for a remarkable $3,300, more than double the estimated value of $1,500. Later that night, an 1826 Half-Sovereign from Great Britain auctioned for $2,400, far higher than the estimated value of $1,000.

In recognition of the growing interest in foreign coins, F.U.N. Board Member Bud Tobin offered a presentation titled "A Closer Look at Foreign Coins." I was fascinated by Mr. Tobin's anecdotes concerning the acquisition of many key pieces in his collection. He obviously enjoys the hobby and is more than willing to share his experiences and knowledge with others. Several other presentations contributed to the overall success of the F.U.N. Show. At any rare coin convention, the exchange of numismatic information is just as important as the exchange of merchandise.

The success of the F.U.N. Show demonstrated that the market is as strong as ever. It would be unrealistic to expect that the near-insanity experienced in the U.S. rare coin market in late 1979 and early 1980 would continue indefinitely. Though a slight downward market adjustment has occurred in some areas, others have risen dramatically to take up the slack. In addition to the strength of the foreign market, Common-Date Uncirculated Silver Dollars and crisp Uncirculated Fractional and Small-Size currency have never been stronger. One could hardly call $50,000 for a Panama-Pacific $50 slug "cheap" when the same piece was selling for half that amount less than two years ago.

A friend of mine has been collecting error coins for years — double impressions, cracks, etc. I know that these errors are becoming increasingly popular, and am interested in starting a similar collection of currency errors. What are some flaws I should watch for? — A.K., Nashville, TN

First, remember that — as in coins — the greater the error, the higher the value of the “freak” currency tends to be.

Specifically, you should watch for misalignment which can occur either when a sheet of paper is fed through a printing press or when the finished, printed sheet is cut into individual notes.

Be on the lookout too for ink smears that can occur when engraving plates are inadequately cleaned.

Another hazard peculiar to paper money is its tendency to fold at various stages of the printing process. These errors may be fairly minor “gutter folds” which appear as fine white streaks on one or both sides of a bill. Or they can affect the entire note in limitless variations.

Check also for mismatched serial numbers on the same note. It's not uncommon for numbering wheels to be missed or to jam during printing.

For more detailed information on currency errors, you might refer to “Price Guide for the Collector of Modern United States Paper Money Errors,” published by Coin World.

Last year I finally completed a gold type set I had been assembling for years. I'm planning to sell the coins, and start a new collection of German coins. But now I'm wondering if I'm liable for Federal income taxes on the set. — W.K., Baltimore, MD

Since you say your type set took quite a while to assemble, we assume that most of the pieces have been in your collection more than 12 months. Therefore, your profits from the sale (i.e. price received minus all collecting expenses related to those coins, including purchase price and sales taxes) are treated as a long-term capital gain. Such gains, if reinvested in other assets of the same kind, are not taxed. However, if any of the pieces were purchased within 12 months, you probably will want to hold on to them, in order to receive this favorable treatment. (Still, sell if the price is right. Sometimes tax savings seem so tempting that collectors ignore the larger picture. Consider your whole tax situation before you decide.)

When I recently took an 1858 Seated Dollar to a local dealer for appraisal, he said there were only estimates of how many of these dollars were minted that year. I always assumed that records were kept on how many coins are struck each year. Am I wrong? — A.D., Barrington, RI

In this case, yes. Your coin does happen to be a product of a year for which there are no total mintage figures. This is actually quite common since, for many years, the Mint only kept track of the number of coins it gave to the Treasury; not of the actual year in which coins were struck. Mintage estimates may also be inaccurate due to the not uncommon practice of using dies of one year continually until they wore out.

In the case of the 1858 Seated Liberty Dollar, the Red Book estimates that only 80 pieces were struck. 1858 was a Proof-only date, with no business strike silver dollars having been made.

A dermatologist just told me that a rash on my palms is probably due to handling loose change. Just how common is a coin allergy? — P.K., Carrboro, NC

Contact reactions to coins are actually quite common. For most affected people, the offending metal tends to be nickel, which is contained in all U.S. coins except the cent. The largest percentage of nickel appears, not surprisingly, in the five-cent piece.

But, not to place all the blame on pocket change, nickel also appears in detergents, some jewelry, pins, watches, scissors, eating utensils, and stainless-steel.

For years I have been collecting commemorative coins of the British monarchs, and was recently pleased to find a George VI coin in a British antique shop. I wonder about the coin's authenticity, though, since George VI is pictured facing left. Since George V also faced left, shouldn't his successor then have followed British coinage tradition and faced right? — D.P., Seattle, WA

Chances are your coin is authentic. It's true that British tradition has dictated that each monarch pose for his commemorative coin facing in the opposite direction from his predecessor. The confusion in the case of George VI is actually due to Edward VII, whose reign between Georges V and VI was cut short. If Edward had reigned long enough for numismatic honors, his portrait should have faced right, the opposite of George V's. Knowing this, George VI dutifully posed for his coin facing left.

Interestingly enough, before Edward's reign ended, he had already made plans to repudiate over 300 years of British numismatic tradition by insisting that he, too, face left on his coinage. His left side, Edward was convinced, was better than his right. And besides, a right profile would miss the part in his hair. However, before any of his coins could be minted, Edward abdicated the throne to marry American divorcee Wallis Warfield Simpson, and numismatic tradition was preserved.

World Coins

Collecting ancient and world coins is one of man's oldest hobbies. The Emperor Nero collected coins from Greece. Fourteenth century Italian nobles collected Roman coins. English gentlemen of old considered the study of ancient coins a crucial part of a proper education. Today, ancient and world coin collecting is the fastest-growing area in numismatics.

Inventory Selections is proud to present the following offerings of ancient and world coins taken from the latest issue of New England's bi-monthly world coin catalog, New England World Selections. When ordering, please refer to the "W-numbers" that appear before each coin listing. If you'd like a free trial subscription to New England World Selections, which offers New England's entire ancient and world coin inventory, call or write to New England Rare Coin Galleries.

A U.S. CURRENCY SPECIAL

$1 "HAWAII" SMALL SIZE SILVER CERTIFICATE

New England Rare Coin Galleries is offering a special savings on 1935-A $1 "Hawaii" Small Size Silver Certificates (FR #2300). During the early stages of World War II, people were concerned that Hawaii would be invaded by the Japanese, who were gaining strongholds on several of the Pacific islands. Against this threat, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing overprinted 1935-A $1 Silver Certificates and $5, $10, and $20 Federal Reserve Notes from San Francisco with the word "Hawaii" and changed the color of the seal and serial numbers to brown. These distinctive features allowed the currency to be easily devalued in case of a Japanese invasion. The four issues circulated exclusively in the Territory of Hawaii between June 8, 1942 and October 22, 1944.

SMALL SIZE LEGAL TENDER

FR #1504 $2, 1928-C SHEET, GEM NEW SHEET Uncut sheets were sold at face value to collectors and have always been one of the most prized additions to any collection of modern U.S. currency. This superb 12 subject sheet has never been folded. It displays some normal handling at corner tips, but overall is as printed. While all uncut sheets are scarce this is the rarest of the $2 legal tender sheets with only 25 sheets released by the B.E.P. Of these 25 sheets only 12 are accounted for. This example serial #'s B8-69A through B8-80A does not fall into the range of sheets listed in O'Donnell's "Standard handbook of Modern U.S. Paper Money". Probably this was a special presentation sheet pulled off the press and given to a visiting V.I.P. Whatever the situation, a rare opportunity to own a rare and undervalued sheet. ...	5,950.00

Our Complete Numismatic Services

1. Guarantees

☐ Grading

We guarantee that coins purchased from us are graded correctly and will meet our high standards when you wish to sell them. Further, we guarantee to purchase these coins at the same grade at which they were sold, or sell them for you at auction cataloged at the same grade at which you purchased them.

Our grading system is patterned after that of the American Numismatic Association's numerical grading standards. Where appropriate for greatest accuracy, additional intermediate grades are also used. Our designations are:

Poor .....	1
Fair .....	2
About Good .....	3
Good .....	4,6
Very Good .....	8,10
Fine .....	12,15
Very Fine .....	20,25,30,35
Extremely Fine .....	40,45
About Uncirculated .....	50,53,55,58
Mint State .....	60,63,64,65,66,67,68,69,70
Proof .....	60,63,64,65,66,67,68,69,70

Slash grades indicate obverse/reverse designations. For example, a grade of 65/63 describes a coin with an obverse of Mint State-65 and a reverse of Mint State-63. Mishandled Proofs will be graded as any circulated coin, and may be classified as Proof-40 (denoting an Extremely Fine coin) or Proof-55, etc.

☐ Authenticity

We further guarantee that all coins sold by New England Rare Coin Galleries are authentic. To protect our customers, and as proof of our certainty that no altered or counterfeit coin can escape our attention, we guarantee to refund the full purchase price plus 15% compound annual interest, on any non-authentic coin acquired from us.

☐ Documentation

These guarantees are issued in writing with all coins purchased from New England Rare Coin Galleries. Each written guarantee is personally endorsed by two professional numismatists.

☐ Satisfaction

If, for any reason, you are not satisfied with your purchases, you may return them within 45 days of the date you received them for a full refund or replacement.
